...a landmark scheme

Block 4 of ONE London Road follows in the same design and high quality that was offered in previous sold out phases. These were very popular with investor clients due to the practicality provided by the development to the students it will service.

These are high specification self-contained studio apartments, being a generous 18 - 21 sqm. Completion for Block 4 will be in time for Q1 2023. Creating a landmark scheme, ONE London Road provides unrivalled accommodation and amenities for all its student residents, with easy access to Keele and Staffordshire universities, as well as Newcastle-Under-Lyme town centre. Block 4 is arranged over ground and three further floors, with a roof terrace and use of the spacious external communal space.

Also provided is a generous amount of car parking, giving ease of access for students moving in and out, for investors this also provides further potential for income generation. Residents also have use of the onsite bike storage.

Block 4 is the last of the blocks to be built and the final chance for investors to enjoy the high returns, high demand and ownership in this fantastic PBSA development.

Historical town, modern vision

Newcastle-under-Lyme is a historic market town located in Staffordshire and forms part of the wider Stoke-on-Trent area. The town has a population of 75,125 and a regional catchment area in excess of 140,000. Newcastle-Under-Lyme benefits from excellent transport links with the A500 providing direct access to the nearby M6 motorway. In addition to this, direct rail services are available to London (1hr25min), Birmingham (50min), Manchester (40min) and further afield from nearby Stoke-on-Trent railway station.

Manchester International Airport and Birmingham International Airport are situated 35 and 54 miles from Newcastle-under-Lyme respectively and easily accessible from the town.

Newcastle-Under-Lyme has grown to become an education and service hub with both Keele University and the Royal Stoke University Hospital, one of the largest hospitals in the UK, situated in the town. In addition, the University of Staffordshire is in nearby Stoke-on-Trent, with campuses across the country being consolidated into this location.

The Newcastle-under-Lyme and Stoke-on-Trent area represents the largest higher education destination in Staffordshire and one that is extremely popular with students. The region is home to both Keele University and the University of Staffordshire, with a current full-time student population of over 24,000.

Institution	Full Time Students	EU Students	Non EU Students
Keele Uni	9360	205	1030
Staffs Uni	14,910	345	385
Total	24,270	450	1415

The Newcastle-under-Lyme and Stoke-On-Trent Purpose Built Student Accommodation (PBSA) market is in its infancy in comparison to other UK locations with similar student populations. The supply of PBSA is limited, with most beds under university ownership which are outdated and of poorer quality. In Newcastle-under-Lyme, there are currently only 160 beds available in the direct let market located in one scheme (Keele House) with only a further 440 available in Stoke-On-Trent across three schemes.

The area is significantly under supplied for the number of students based in this area, and with the continued growth and popularity of Keele and Staffordshire universities, the demand is set to increase. The majority of students are currently forced to live in low quality HMOs located throughout the area. These homes are vastly inferior to the product provided by ONE London Road, which when complete will provide the highest quality accommodation for students in the region, superior to all current options.

Ranked 13th

(2018)

Keele University was originally founded as the University College of North Staffordshire in 1949 before being granted university status in 1962. The university was ranked 48th in the 2019 University Rankings for the UK as published by studyin-uk.com. Keele was also ranked 13th in the whole of the UK for its medical courses out of over 30 other establishments. The university was also given the highest award possible by the Teaching Excellence Framework (TEF), which is only achieved by 20% of UK Higher Education providers. In addition, 97% of research conducted by Keele University according to REF has been classed as world-leading or of international importance.

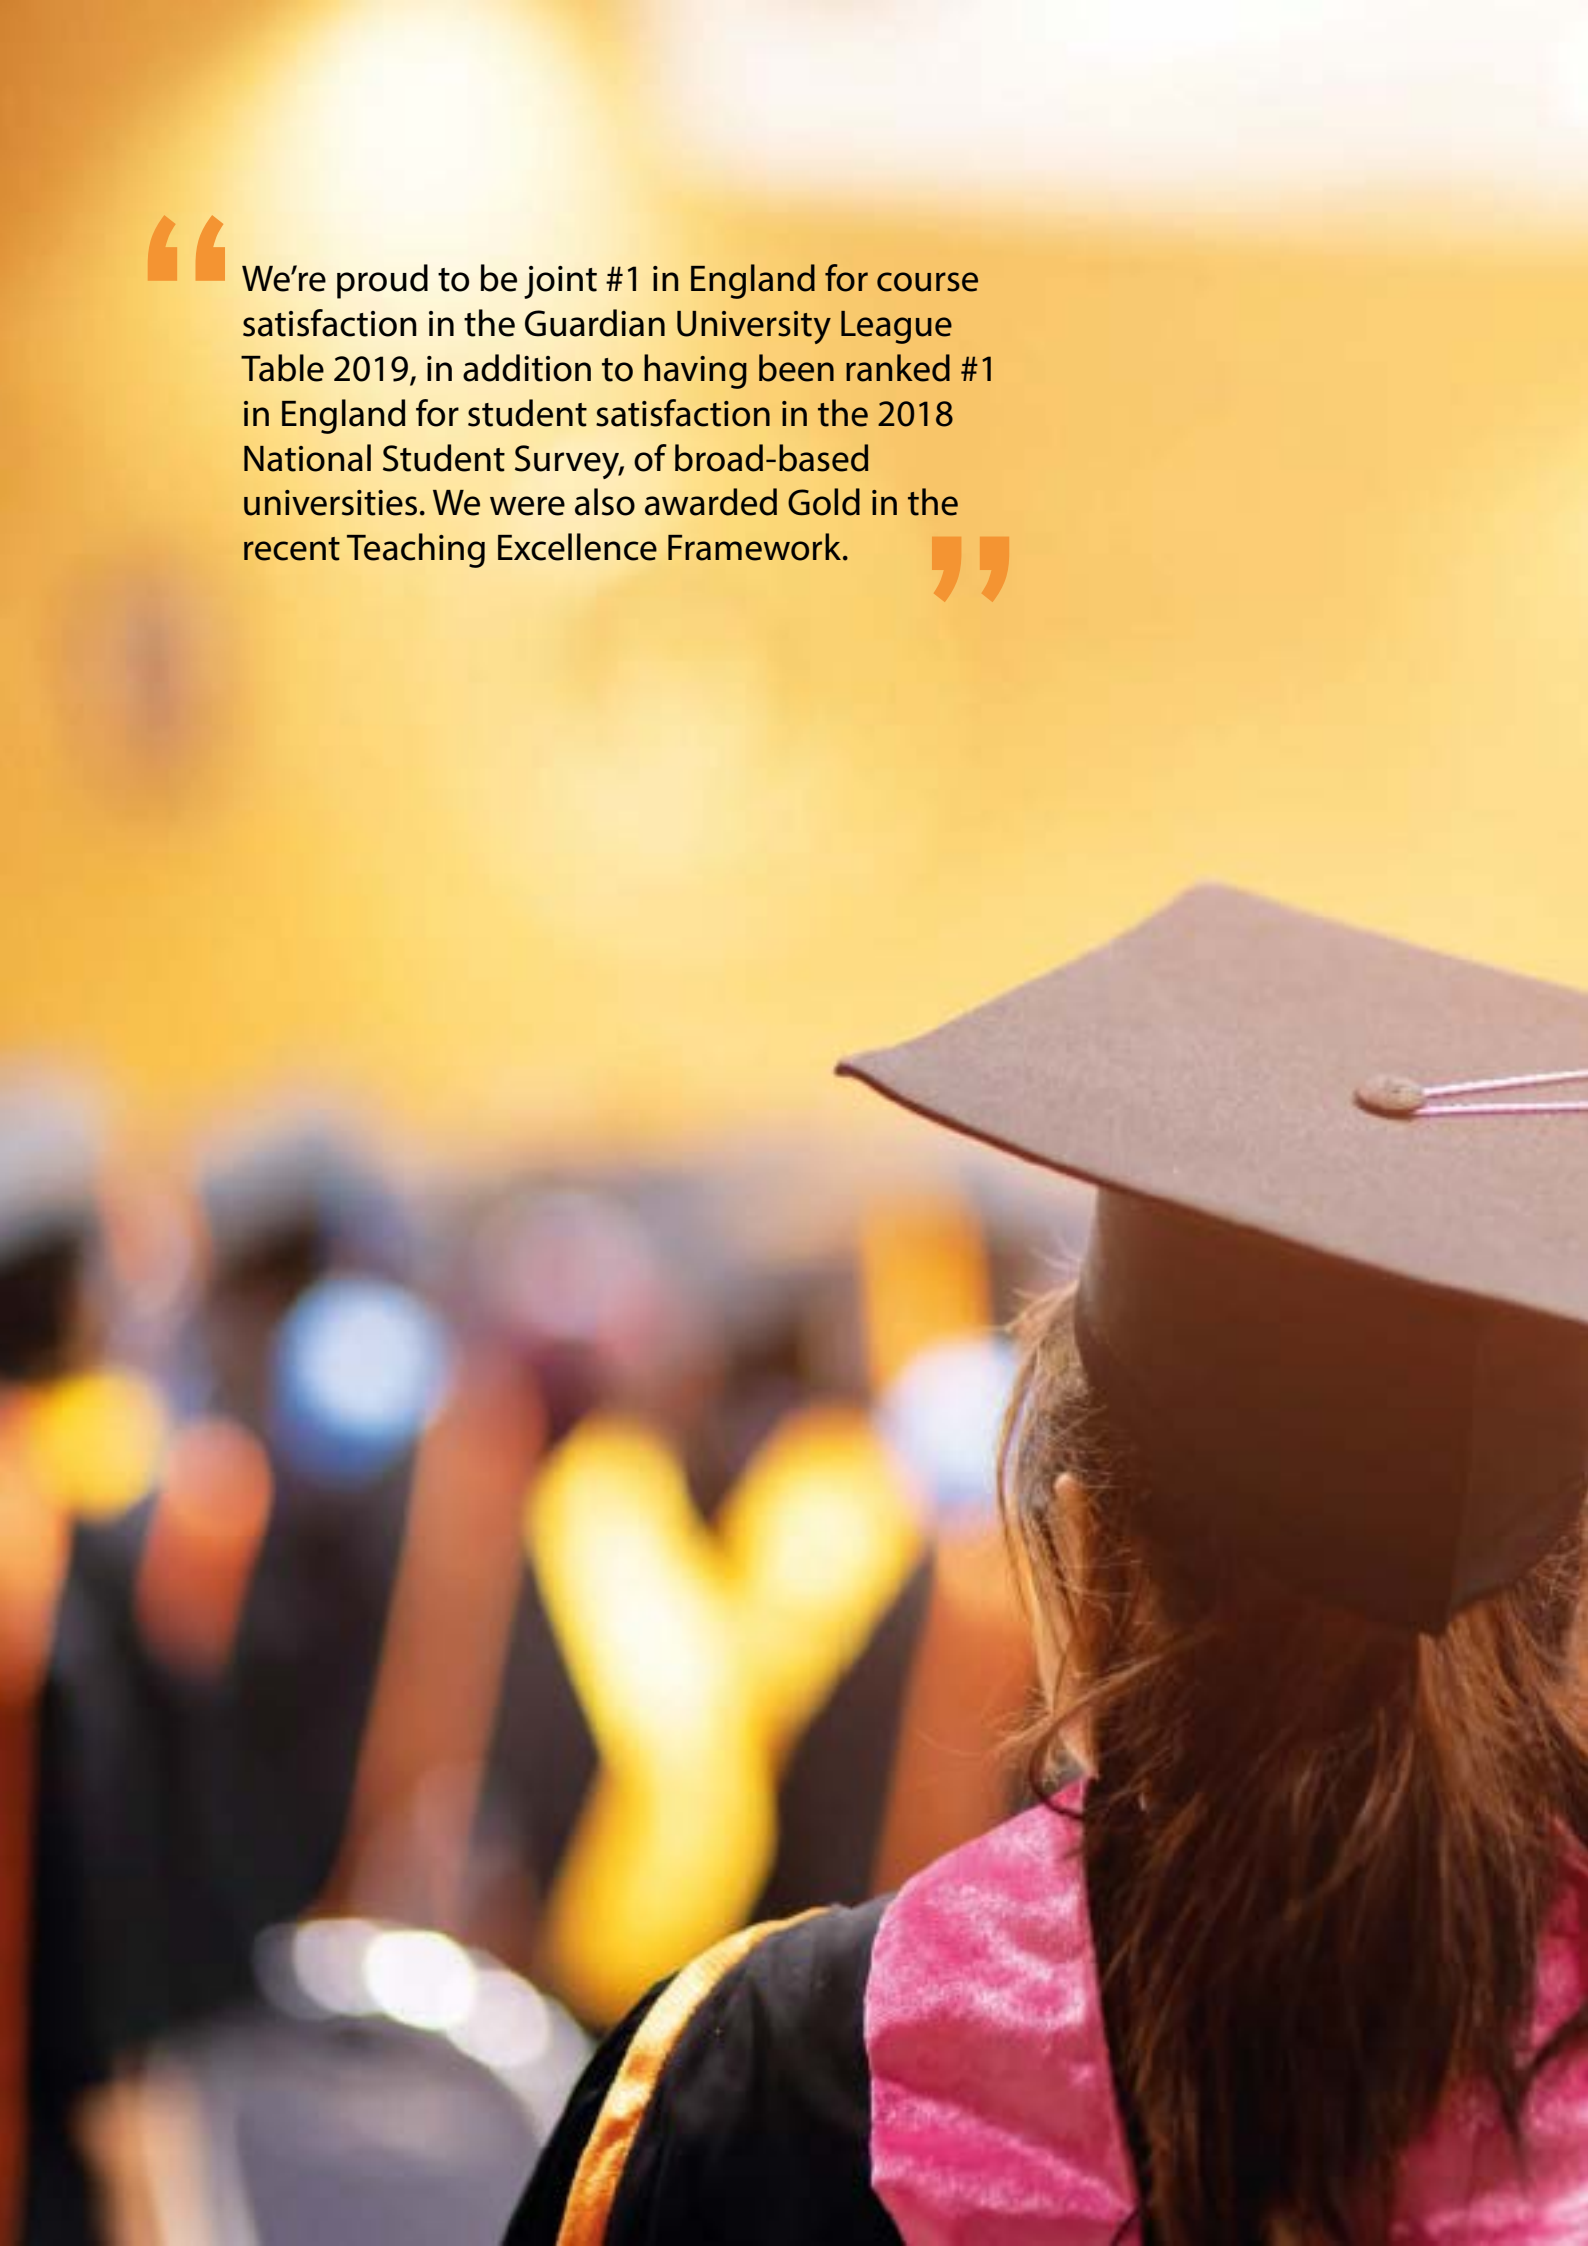

Investment at Keele

Keele University announced two major new investments on its campus in 2018 to power significant advancements in the immediate term: a new multi-million-pound state-of-the-art facility that houses both Keele Business School and incubated companies in a sector-leading Smart Innovation Hub.

This new investment in the Business School will underpin a planned substantial growth in student numbers over the next five years. This investment will play a key role enabling the university to continue its commitment to widening participation in higher education for people locally, a key priority of the funding from the Denise Coates Foundation. As well as the major investment into its business school, Keele is collaborating with Harper Adams University with its brand new veterinary school.

We're proud to be joint #1 in England for course satisfaction in the Guardian University League Table 2019, in addition to having been ranked #1 in England for student satisfaction in the 2018 National Student Survey, of broad-based universities. We were also awarded Gold in the recent Teaching Excellence Framework.

Keele University is currently in the process of substantially growing its student population. In excess of £115 million has been invested in the campus and full-time student numbers increased by 6.06% between 2014/16, far above the UK average (HESA).

In addition, the university is planning to substantially increase the student population to in excess of 12,000 over the next three to five years, and are only increasing their rooms from 3500 to 4300 on campus leaving a shortfall of 8000 units to be accommodated in the private sector.

Keele Business School

Keele Business School is renowned for providing an excellent student experience and is contributing to the University's recognised position nationally and internationally for teaching quality, student satisfaction, and graduate employability.

The new Business School has been funded by the University and the Denise Coates Foundation, after which the new iconic building at the entrance to the University will be named. The Smart Innovation Hub has been funded by the University, Staffordshire County Council, UK Government Growth Deal Funding and the European Regional Development Fund, the latter two sourced via the Stoke-on-Trent & Staffordshire Local Enterprise Partnership.

Harper & Keele Veterinary School

During their studies, students are able to benefit from Harper's longstanding reputation in animal sciences and access to Harper's farm and companion animal facilities, alongside Keele's experience of establishing a leading UK medical school and significant recent investment in facilities such as state-of-the-art teaching laboratories. The Harper & Keele Veterinary School opened in 2020.

School of Medicine

One of the cornerstones of the successful partnership between Keele University and the University Hospitals of North Midlands NHS Trust is its ongoing success in providing local and national healthcare systems with highly trained and qualified staff.

Keele University School of Medicine is committed not only to graduate excellent clinicians from our MBChB course, but also to working in partnership with NHS stakeholders. Their aim is to help improve health care, recruitment and retention of health professionals in our area by our course provision.

The Royal Stoke University Hospital and the Keele School of Medicine is less than 5 minutes walk from ONE London Road, and the development already houses many student doctors and nurses attending the campus here.

Staffordshire University

Staffordshire University was originally founded as North Polytechnic, before being granted university status under its current title in 1992. The university's main campus is in Stoke-On-Trent, with the majority of students based at this location.

Staffordshire University ranked 73rd in the Complete University Guide for 2019 and is renowned for a number of subject areas including sciences, media and computing, with the university being identified as offering the number one computer gaming courses in the UK. The university has recently invested over £40 million in renovating its Stoke-On-Trent campus, following the sale of its Stafford Beaconside site. It has consolidated most teaching and administrative buildings to the Stoke location, illustrating the university's commitment to this location.

Premium Apartments for leading institutions

ONE London Road has already attracted a lot of interest from various institutions in the area. These world-class educational establishments wish to use some of the apartments for their own student body upon completion. As a result, we are confident that occupying these apartments quickly after completion will not be an issue.
